Farm-to-School program aims for more local foods on cafeteria serving lines

A new push to put more locally produced food on the serving lines in school cafeterias across South Carolina made its debut at the end of last month.

The Farm-to-School pilot program – a joint effort of the South Carolina Department of Education (SCDE) and the South Carolina Department of Agriculture – was announced at kick-off ceremonies at Walter P. Rawl & Sons farm on Fairview Road in Pelion. It coincided with Lexington County's celebration of Farm to School Week, May 17-21.

The new program is a public-private partnership of produce growers, a local distributor and Lexington School Districts One, Two, Three and Four, plus District Five of Lexington and Richland counties. A total of 70 schools will be participating.

Farm-to-School enlists the cooperation of Lexington County growers including Rawl & Sons, Clayton Rawl Farms in Gilbert, Watsonia in Ridge Spring and Coosaw Farms in Fairfax. Senn Brothers, the local produce distributor, will be delivering fresh food directly from the farms to the schools.

June - Time to Celebrate Dairy Month and Beef Month

June is a great time to celebrate the beef and dairy industries in South Carolina. There's nothing finer than Certified South Carolina dairy and beef for summer backyard events. Whether it's homemade ice cream or beef on the grill, our cattle industries play a vital role in providing healthy, nutritious food.

June is Dairy Month, the occasion when we honor South Carolina dairy farm families for the wholesome, nutritious milk they provide. The 2010 theme, Dairy Makes Cents - It's pocket-friendly and nutrient-rich, highlights the nutritional and economical value of dairy foods.

June is also the month to recognize the dedicated men and women who produce high quality, safe, wholesome, nutritious beef products in South Carolina. One of South Carolina's favorite ways to enjoy beef is on the grill.

Hugh Weathers, Commissioner of Agriculture who knows a thing or two about cattle said, "dairy and beef products are a nutritional and economical value for consumers." "In today's challenging economy," he added, "it's important to make smart food choices when it comes to both price and nutrition."

The dairy industry advises consumers to choose pocket-friendly and nutrient-rich foods such as milk, cheese, and yogurt and follow this four step nutrition plan to cut costs without sacrificing nutrition. Fill your cart with nutrient rich foods - Choose vibrantly colored fruits and vegetables - the brighter color indicates more vitamins and minerals, lean beef and dairy products for affordable protein sources, whole grain fortified breads and cereals, and calcium-rich low-fat and fat-free milk, cheese and yogurt. On average, an eight ounce serving of milk costs only a quarter and provides a unique package of nine essential vitamins and minerals, including vitamins A and D and potassium, making it one of the best beverage bargains around. Plan meals ahead - Prior planning prevents last minute shopping trips which can be costly. Make a list - According to the Food Marketing Institute, Americans spend $2 for every minute they spend in the grocery store. Sticking to a list can save time and money. And, clip coupons - Coupons can save consumers up to 15 percent on their grocery bill.

June is also Beef Month, a great time to pay homage to steaks, beef burgers, roasts and other lean beef products. Summer grilling is South Carolina's favorite way to enjoy beef.

"Beef producers do not take extra special care of their animals or the food they produce only one month of the year. It's what we do every day of every month - bringing healthy, nutritious food from our pastures to the consumers' plate," says SC Beef Board Chairman Carl Setzler, beef producer from Newberry. "Our beef checkoff program continues to work to increase consumer demand through things such as food retail promotions, food service partnerships, summer grilling/holiday promotional campaigns and numerous other consumer educational programs."

Summertime - And the (good) Eatin' is Easy

This past Monday was Memorial Day, the unofficial start of summer for most people. While on that day we honor our service men and women with parades and celebrations, Memorial Day in South Carolina also means good friends, great food and the beginning of summer outdoor events.

Although summer doesn't officially begin until June 21st, this is a great month for agricultural celebrations. June is Dairy Month. It's Beef Month - and, I guess you could say, it's Certified SC Grown Month because of all the local produce that is available. As more and more fresh, locally grown produce becomes available at your neighborhood grocery store, farmers market, or Certified Roadside Market you will be able to eat the fruits and vegetables that grow so well here in the Palmetto State.

Our new theme for the Certified SC Grown is 'making memories' in South Carolina and good food will make your summer outdoor celebrations even more memorable. There are any number of ways to enjoy the summer and the endless supply of local foods. It is summertime and the good eatin' does get easier. Check out these four tips to a great summer holiday feast.

1. The first and probably the most important tip: Food from the grill should be like ants at a picnic - plentiful! Make sure there is plenty of locally grown food on the table.

Farm-to-School program

Passage of the federal 2008 Farm Bill allows schools to use local preference in buying agricultural products, both locally grown and locally raised, according to Todd Bedenbaugh, the SCDE’s Director of Health and Nutrition. He commended the school districts’ food service leaders – Pat Carter, Rion Skinner, Susan Cassels, Lora Beth Rucker and Ben Madden – for working with growers in the joint effort.

"Farm-to-School programs can improve nutrition and local economies," State Superintendent of Education Jim Rex said at today’s kick-off. "Agriculture has the potential for creating more jobs in the local and state economy."

Rex and Commissioner of Agriculture Hugh Weathers also support the program’s aim to educate students about how agriculture is connected to food and nutrition. Children are encouraged to make healthier food choices by eating more fresh fruits and vegetables.

“Healthier foods make healthier students. Starting with fresh, locally-grown fruits and vegetables in season, we can build stronger bodies and, at the same time, build stronger local economies,” Weathers said. “When the school food service buys local produce directly from growers through the local distributor, the entire community wins.”

Also on hand for today’s announcement were students from Pelion Elementary School, who harvested radishes at the Rawl farm as part of a school-based agricultural project. In addition, Bedenbaugh and Rex recognized four students who were winners in the Second Annual Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Drawing Contest sponsored by the Office of Health and Nutrition and the School Nutrition Association of South Carolina.

The contest, open to students in schools selected for the state’s Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program, encouraged youngsters to create their vision of “the colorful fruits and vegetables that grace our great State of South Carolina” and to write a short message about what they learned through classroom discussions, research and planning to prepare their drawing entry.

Contest winners were: 1st Place – Trevon Gibson, Kingstree Elementary School, Williamsburg County, 2nd Place – Kaitlin Lauren Touzeau, Albert R. Lewis Elementary School, Pickens

County, 3rd Place – Holly Clayton, Albert R. Lewis Elementary School, and Honorable Mention – Constance Fitzpatrick, Elloree Elementary School, Orangeburg Three.

Summertime-And the (good) Eatin' is Easy

2. Look for the Certified SC Grown logo for fresh locally grown produce and products. Even though we are fortunate in South Carolina to have access to local produce year round, the summer season is the best time for finding a full basket load of our locally grown fruits and vegetables. That means corn on the cob, beans, tomatoes, cucumbers, summer squash, peaches, watermelons, cantaloupes and other produce that is abundant this harvest season. And, don't forget the salad for your outdoor festivities. Not only will you please your guests who are eating light, the colors will add punch to the palate. Add fruit and pecans to a green leafy salad. Sprinkle it with feta cheese and a quick-and-easy vinaigrette, and you'll have a salad that is out of this world for any summer meal!
3. For this month's entrée, celebrate Beef Month by lighting up the grill. Hamburgers or steaks are always crowd pleasers. And top it with one of our own Certified SC produced specialty barbecue sauces.
4. Last on your menu (but certainly not the least) is dessert to celebrate June Dairy Month. A bowl of freshly churned ice cream topped with South Carolina peaches. Although I am no doctor, I recommend this dessert for medicinal purposes.
- Patriotism is flying the American flag. It's supporting our troops and their families through efforts like Wounded Warriors, Fisher House Foundation, and Honor Flight. It's taking advantage of the rights bestowed by our founding fathers like casting our vote in elections. But, the truest of all patriotic deeds is the ultimate sacrifice of our soldiers on the battlefield. Let's remember those patriots and the ones who have served or are now serving not only on Memorial Day, Armed Forces Day, or Independence Day, but - everyday! And let's remember the patriots who put food on our table - everyday!
- Family, friends, fun, fellowship, and great food - that's what memories are made of . . . No matter how you spend your summer months, make sure it involves Certified SC Grown.

Lexington County holds 52nd Annual Peach Festival

The Lexington County Peach Festival will be held July 3 at the Gilbert Community Park on Rikard Circle in Gilbert.

This one-day festival starts at 9 a.m. with the Peach Recipe Contest sponsored by the Lexington County Farm Bureau Women’s Committee. Their Just Peachy recipe cookbooks featuring all recipes from over 20 years of peach contests will be available at the festival for $10 each. Following the Peach Recipe Contest will be a patriotic parade in addition to almost 100 arts and crafts vendors and an auto and an antique tractor and farm equipment show.

This is the 52nd year the Lexington County Peach Festival has been held and offers a full day of activities including the parade in the morning, three stages of entertainment throughout the day, and a fireworks display that night in the Gilbert Community Park. There will also be arts and crafts, children’s rides, and food will also be available. Make sure to try some peach ice cream, peach cobbler, peach sundaes, or peach tea made with local peaches.

This year’s pageants for the Festival will be held on June 26 and July 3. Deadline to apply is June 15. The deadline for arts and crafts vendors is June 18. More information and applications are available at www.lexingtoncountypeachfestival.com or call 803-892-5207.

June - Time to Celebrate

Americans generally have a love affair with beef and beef products. During June, the Summer Grilling campaign will feature various promotional programs in many retail outlets as well as restaurant menu themes. The campaign will be built around grilling with Dad, especially honoring that special Fathers Day of June 20th.

"Whether you grill a steak or a burger, we encourage you and others to eat more beef and enjoy the passion of these products especially during the summer grilling time," said Mr. Setzler. That's reason to tip your hat to beef producers in our state.

For more information about beef checkoff-funded efforts or for some great grilling recipes, contact the SC Beef Board Office, PO Box 11280, Columbia, SC 29211 or call 803-734-9806. For more information about the dairy industry, visit www.southeastdairy.org.

Grilled T-Bone Steaks with BBQ Rub

2 to 4 well-trimmed beef T-Bone or Porterhouse steaks, cut 1 inch thick (about 2 to 4 pounds)
Salt

BBQ Rub:
2 tablespoons chili powder
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon ground cumin
2 teaspoons minced garlic
2 teaspoons cider vinegar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper

Combine BBQ Rub ingredients; press evenly onto beef steaks.

Place steaks on grid over medium, ash-covered coals. Grill, uncovered, 14 to 16 minutes (over medium heat on preheated gas grill, covered, 15 to 19 minutes) for medium rare (145°F) to medium (160°F) doneness, turning occasionally. Remove bones and carve steaks into slices, if desired. Season with salt, as desired.

Mango-Curry Chicken Salad

Prep Time: 20 minutes
Cook Time: 20 minutes

2½ cups (½-inch pieces) grilled skinless, boneless chicken breasts
¾ cup plain, nonfat yogurt
1 teaspoon curry
¼ cup cubed mango
1 cup dried, sweetened cranberries
¼ cup walnuts, coarsely chopped
1/3 cup Mozzarella, cut into small cubes

Grill chicken breasts, cut into small pieces and set aside. In a medium bowl, blend yogurt and curry with a whisk and stir in chicken, mango, cranberries, walnuts and Mozzarella. Mix well and serve on lettuce leaves if desired. Makes 4 servings.

USDA June Surveys to Provide Vital Data on 2010 Farm Production

USDA’s National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) is surveying hundreds of farmers across South Carolina to get a clearer indication of the production and supply of major commodities for 2010.

“With the 2010 growing season now in full swing, we can start to get a fuller picture of how things are shaping up for the agricultural sector. We’ll be looking at what crops have been planted, what commodities are in storage and how much livestock is in inventory,” said Eddie Wells, director of the NASS South Carolina Field Office.

Wells explained that NASS will gather this information through two major mid-year surveys: the June Area Survey and the June Agricultural Survey.

“For the area survey, we visit randomly selected tracts of land and interview the operators of any farm or ranch on that land. We collect information on crop acreage – including biotech crops, as well as grain stocks, livestock inventory, cash rents, land values, and value of sales,” he said.

“For the agricultural survey, which we also call the ‘crop/stocks survey,’ we contact producers by mail, phone or personal visit. We ask them to provide information on their total acreage, acres planted to specific commodities – including biotech varieties, and quantities of grains and oilseeds stored on-farm.”

This information will be a critical component of several key national reports, including the annual Acreage report and the quarterly Grain Stocks report, both to be released on June 30. Survey data also contribute to NASS’s monthly and annual Crop Production reports and various other crop and livestock-related publications, all of which are available online at www.nass.usda.gov.

“Especially in these uncertain economic times, farmers and the rest of the agricultural industry need timely, accurate data on the current state of U.S. agriculture,” Wells said. “The information collected through our mid-year surveys can help producers, suppliers, traders, buyers, export customers and others to make sound and informed business decisions.”

USDA Urges Producers to Sign Up Now for Conservation Stewardship Program

Applications will be accepted through June 11

State Conservationist Ann English announced that producers in South Carolina are invited to apply for the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP).

Authorized in the 2008 Farm Bill, CSP offers payments to producers who maintain a high level of conservation on their land and who agree to adopt higher levels of stewardship. Eligible lands include cropland, pastureland, rangeland and non-industrial forestland. The deadline to be considered for the next ranking and funding period is June 11.

“Voluntary conservation practices by producers are an essential part of our effort to improve soil and water quality,” said English. “Broad and diverse participation in the CSP program will provide producers with many benefits such as enhancing wildlife habitat and helping to mitigate the impact of climate change.”

Congress limited enrollment for CSP nationally at 12.7 million acres per year. Applicants will compete within state-identified ranking pools. CSP is offered in all 50 states, District of Columbia, and the Pacific and Caribbean areas through continuous sign-ups with announced cut-off application dates for ranking periods.

Under the interim final rule published July 29, 2009, eligible producers may submit an application to enroll eligible land in CSP on a continuous basis. Producers are encouraged to apply for CSP now to ensure their applications will be considered during the next funding and ranking period. However, they can make their final decision to participate in the program once the CSP final rule is issued. The final rule will establish the policies and procedures for the program.

Potential applicants are encouraged to use the CSP self-screening checklist to determine if the new program is suitable for their operation. The checklist highlights basic information about CSP eligibility requirements, contract obligations and potential payments. It is available from local USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) offices or on the NRCS Web site at www.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/new_csp/csp.html.

CSP offers payments for adding conservation practices and maintaining and managing existing conservation practices.

For more information about CSP in SC, please visit your local NRCS office, or go to www.sc.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/CSP2010.html.
